

ODD FELLOWS HOME.

Many Arrivals and All Enjoying Their Sojourn.

Last week there were a number of new arrivals and the rooms are being filled with guests.

George A. Floding and wife of Hunt, Va., are here for the winter, and both are pleasant people. Mr. Floding is a P. G. and P. C. of the Odd Fellows and a P. C. of the K. of P. lodge of his home city. He also publishes The Odd Fellows' Advocate and manufactures regalia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Marsh and son, who have been guests for some time, will commence housekeeping this week in the Brown House Annex.

Col. A. E. Whittemore of Bowling Green, Ky., is taking on aviculture and his fine bass voice is coming back to him.

We will soon have a fine mixed quartet and be able to furnish music on all occasions. Mesdames Smith, Wilcox and Floding are all getting their voices in fine condition.

Our worthy matron, Mrs. D. G. Edwards, is quite busy these days caring for the sick and the other guests, but the neat and tidy appearance of the Home, as the older guests are disposed to call it, makes it one of the most cheerful places in Florida.

J. C. Byars left on Monday for a business trip about the East Coast, to be gone about two weeks.

Miss Florence Wilcox, who is here with her mother for the winter, expects to attend the public school during their stay here.

C. D. Schafer, the sculptor, has developed a taste for photography, and on Monday took a snap shot of the Home with all the guests on the porch. If the picture is a good one it will be a great card for his camera, such a variety of beauty being presented.

Mr. Gerald Will Build.

Gainesville may add another fine building to the long list of contemplated improvements, J. B. Gerald having decided to erect a handsome residence on the lot recently acquired, East Main street, N.

The contract has been let, and C. E. Whiting expects to begin work at once. The structure will be two stories, and will contain seven rooms and a bath. It will be modern in every respect, and a possession of which the owner may well feel proud.

SHOOTING BIG GAME.

Danger When the Bullet Fails to Stop the Brute's Advance.

The disturbing element in hunting elephant or seladang or rhino has been always to me at least the feeling of uncertainty as to whether or not I could stop the animal if I wounded it and it charged me, as it did on an average of once in three times.

Based on my experience, therefore, I should place the elephant first and the rhino third after the seladang, which is fully as formidable as the Cape buffalo and is misnamed the bison all over India. Each of these animals is dangerous on different and individual grounds. The elephant, though less likely to charge than any of the others, is terrifying because of his enormous strength, which stops at no obstacle, and the extreme difficulty of reaching a vital spot, especially if, with trunk tightly coiled, he is coming your way.

I know of no sensation more awesome than standing ankle deep in clinging mud in dense cover, with the jungle crashing around you as though the entire forest was toppling, as the elephant you have wounded comes smashing his way in your direction. The seladang is dangerous partly because of the thick jungle he seeks when wounded, but more especially because of his tremendous vitality and his usual though not invariable habit of awaiting the hunter on his tracks and charging suddenly, swiftly and viciously. It requires close and hard shooting to bring down one of these six foot specimens of oriental cattle.

The danger of the tiger and of the lion is in their lightning activity and ferocious strength. But you have the shoulder in addition to the head shot if broadside, or, if coming on the chest, all sure to stop if well placed. The reason the rhino is so formidable is because its vulnerable spots are so hard to reach. Its brain is as small in proportion as that of the elephant and may be reached through the eye if head-on, or about three inches below and just in front of or just behind the base of the ear, according to your position for a shot.—Outing.

Sickening Shivering Fits

Of ague and malaria can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to quinine, having none of this drug's bad after effects. E. S. Mundy, of Henrietta, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malaria fever and jaundice, till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life. At all druggists. Price 50c. guaranteed."

IN A PADDLE WHEEL.

A Terrifying Adventure With a Moment of Deadly Peril.

Mr. Stanhope Hall, author of "Twenty Years at Sea," was not much more than a boy when he had the following curious and terrifying adventure, the recollection of which haunted him all his life! The ship on which he was making his first voyage was loading cotton in Mobile bay, and the captain had sent him in a small boat to get some newspapers from a big side wheel steamer which lay near by. In trying to bring the boat up to the steamer, he says, I upset myself and went down. I could not swim, and I struggled in hopeless terror. When I came to the surface I found myself in the brackets of the great wheel. They were green with river moss and slippery as ice, but I managed to get astride of one and regain my breath.

As I held on, panting from my plunge, a thrill of horror ran through me. The wheel had slowly begun to revolve. In agony I shouted, but in that great wheel box my voice was as nothing. Slowly the wheel turned, carrying me upward. When I reached the top I should be ground to pieces, or, if by chance I escaped that fate, I should be drowned when I was again drawn under the wheel into the fearful suction. Again and again I shouted. Finally, as I was nearing the top, a little trapdoor opened and some one looked into the box. I opened my mouth to call once more, but my throat was paralyzed. For a moment I could not utter a note.

The trapdoor was just closing when, with one mighty effort, my voice came back and I screamed. The man opened the trap again, saw me, sprang upon the wheel and snatched me into safety. I was a heavy weight in his arms as he carried me to the deck, for I fainted dead away.

Imperfect Indigestion

Means less nutrition and in consequence less vitality. When the liver fails to secrete bile, the blood becomes loaded with bilious properties, the digestion becomes impaired and the bowels constipated. Herbine will rectify this; it gives tone to the stomach, liver and kidneys, strengthens the appetite, clears and improves the complexion, infuses new life and vigor to the whole system. 50 cents a bottle. Sold by W. M. Johnson.
